

THE ROME PROGRAM Architecture & Culture in Italy

The University of Miami sponsors fall and spring semesters in Rome, Italy. Founded in 1999, the Program brings together a select group of upper level students and faculty members for an intensive experience in design, drawing, and history of architecture. Travel within Italy during each semester is a key component of the coursework in addition to a special field trip outside of the Italian peninsula. The curriculum consists of design and drawing courses, lectures, workshops, guided walking tours, and field trips. Acceptance to the Rome program is based on grade point average, an essay of intention and a portfolio. Interested students should contact the undergraduate Rome program coordinator Carmen Guerrero.
